

A Story About a Manager Reviewing Starting Pay at His Cafe

A manager gazes at the statutory minimum on the labor law poster and says, “Okay, I’ll try this out. First I look up my statutory minimum ... I see it on my up-to-date labor law poster or my state’s labor website.”

The manager then proceeds to type on his computer and says, “Then I go to my Current Cafe Wage Zone Details report in Workday and find my Panera Maximum. I also see my wage zone there too.”

Manager gazes at the screen as he says, “And at the top of the Wage Ranges document from OurPanera, I see that my cafe gets an amount added to the statutory minimum to give us our Panera minimum. Nice!”

The writes the calculation down on a piece of paper “Total RTM Pay divide by Total RTMs” and says, “Now I just need to find a good range between the Panera minimum and my RTM average pay to use as a range I can work with to offer a new hire. I can do this!”
